

Nuclear Medicine Imaging Specialist

- Rare opportunity to join the team at Castlereagh Imaging
- Access to our substantial specialist referral base
- Be rewarded for your hard work

Castlereagh Imaging is a leading and long established radiology and nuclear medicine practice in Sydney. We are a proud part of the Sonic Healthcare group, Australia's only global diagnostics business. We continue to enjoy significant growth, and we are offering an opportunity to work with our great team and to access our state-of-the-art technology which includes Dual Head cameras and CT SPECT at 2 of our sites.

Castlereagh enjoys an exceptional clinical reputation and is now looking for equally exceptional nuclear medicine imaging specialists to join our practices in Sydney on a permanent part-time basis. Applicants with qualifications in both radiology and nuclear medicine will also be at an advantage.

As a leading provider of imaging services across Sydney, Castlereagh offers it's imaging specialists:

- A supportive team environment
- A superb technical, nursing and clerical staff establishment
- Access to ongoing professional development within a cohesive, collegiate group
- Generous leave entitlements
- Access to all modalities (for dual trained applicants)
- Excellent remuneration package
- Relocation assistance where appropriate
- The long term security of employment with a major ASX listed company with a track record of over 30 years of stable, doctor-led management

This role will appeal to a highly motivated person who has a relentless focus on delivering quality results for our patients and our referrers. You will also seek autonomy and flexibility, have a customer focused mindset and be a team player.

To discuss the opportunity in more detail, please contact Dr Julian Adler in complete confidence on:

Phone: 0417 421 602 or

Email your details to: julianadler@casimaging.com.au